Dear Kelly,

We have been living in the same neighborhood for 15 years. Our neighborhood is really pleasant. We love all our neighbors and we get along with them pretty well. But recently a new family moved to our neighborhood and everything changed. We have lots of complaints about them. For instance, they never clean up their yard. They have always have garbage in their front yard. And they never cut the grass. In addition to these, the guy next door always parks his car in front of our driveway, and it really irritates us. But our main concern is the noise they make. The woman plays her piano after midnight, and it gets on my nerves. I'm desperate since I don't know what to do. How can we all get along?

Sincerely,
Hopeless

Dear Hopeless,

Believe it or not, your neighbors probably don't mean to irritate you. Often, they don't even know that they're getting on your nerves. So before you take extreme measures to fix the problems, you should discuss them with your neighbors first. When you approach your neighbors, you should talk to them in a friendly manner. Compliment their children or do something else to make them feel good. Then explain the situation. And if you can think of a simple solution suggest it. If talking doesn't work, ask another person to help. This person can listen to both sides of the story and help you and your neighbor resolve the situation. Finally, it's sometimes a good idea to avoid the problem. Depending on the issue, it might be best to just stay out of your neighbor's way.

Kelly

Read the text below. Then answer the questions 26-30 according to the text.

ONE WORLD, VARIOUS CUSTOMS

The customs around the world has a great diversity. It is not only just a result of the countries' geographical position but also their different lifestyles and beliefs. Most countries have special holidays and festivals to celebrate. For instance, on the evening of February 3, people in Japan celebrate the end of winter and the beginning of spring. This is known as Setsubun. People wear costumes and throw beans in Setsubun. Similarly, January 17 is a special day in Mexico. It's St. Anthony's Day. It's a day when people ask for protection for their animals by bringing them to church. But before the animals go into the church, the people usually dress them up in flowers and ribbons.

Other than these, it is possible to talk about some special holidays and festivals in China and Korea. While Chinese and Korean people celebrate a few holidays according to the western calendar, the lunar calendar is used for most others. Some of the important holidays in the lunar calendar, which follows the cycles of the moon, are The Mid-Autumn Festival of China, and Chusok, which is also known as Korean Thanksgiving, of Korea. When Chinese people celebrate the Mid-Autumn Festival, they often meet in beautiful places, and they look at the moon by eating mooncakes. And for the Chusok, Korean people give thanks for the harvest, and honor their ancestors by going to their graves to take them rice, and fruit, and clean the gravesites.

The holidays and festivals that have been mentioned so far are very peculiar to the countries they are celebrated, but there are some other holidays and festivals which are celebrated almost all over the world like New Year's Eve. As it is said before, it is celebrated almost all over the world, but people eat special different foods for good luck in different countries. For example, some Chinese people eat tangerines. Tangerines are round, and round foods end and begin again, like years. Jewish people eat apples with honey for a sweet year, whereas in Spain and some Latin American countries, people eat 12 grapes at midnight on New Year's Eve- one grape for good luck in each month of the new year. So, although we share the same world, we have different customs and traditions which make the world a special place.
